H.R. 4768 – Separation of Powers Restoration Act of 2016 (Rep. Ratcliffe – Judiciary) (One hour of debate). The bill would overturn Supreme Court precedent that would require courts to give substantial deference to an Agency’s interpretation of the law and regulations. H.R. 4768 would essentially abolish decades of precedent which would severely impair the ability of agencies to safeguard public health and safety, and would delay judicial review of regulatory actions. Without any constraints on judicial review, the bill would incentivize judicial activism by allowing a reviewing court to substitute its policy preferences for those of the agency, which Congress has specifically entrusted with rulemaking authority.

The Coalition for Sensible Safeguards, an alliance of more than 150 consumer, labor, research, faith based, and other public interest groups strongly oppose the legislation, as it would weaken the regulatory system. The full letter can be found here.

In the Statement of Administration Policy, the President's senior advisors stated that they would recommend he veto this bill.

The Rule provides for one hour of general debate and makes in order 5 amendments, debatable for 10 minutes, equally divided between the offeror and an opponent. The amendments are:

Conyers Amendment. Exempts from the bill rules issued by the Environmental Protection Agency pertaining to regulation of lead or copper in drinking water.

Jackson-Lee Amendment. Excludes cases where rules are issued by the Department of Homeland Security and pertain to matters of national security.

Meeks Amendment. Exempts from the bill rules issued by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Johnson (GA) Amendment. Exempts from the bill rules issued pursuant to an express grant of authority from Congress.

Cicilline Amendment. Preserves judicial deference to agency expertise during the review of consumer safety rules issued by the Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

*Members are advised that votes on amendments, motion to recommit, and final passage will be postponed until tomorrow.

The Daily Quote

“Any chance Congress had this year of smoothly completing work on its annual spending bills is now all but dead, leaving Republican leaders to grapple with how to avoid a contentious fight in the weeks before the election over how to avoid the threat of a government shutdown.”
