“Flooded with cash from the Republican tax cut, US public companies announced a whopping $436.6 billion worth of stock buybacks, according to research firm TrimTabs. Not only is that most ever, it nearly doubles the previous record of $242.1 billion, which was set during the first three months of the year... The Republican tax cut created a windfall for Corporate America... A stated goal of the tax law was to encourage businesses to spend more. But it hasn't helped much...”
